IMPERIAL QUARTO. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DIOTIONARY PUNTI AND MANDABIN PRONUNCIATION. n Angen-Chinese Digrionany, by the Rev. W. LOBSCHEID, published at the Daily

Press Office, Hongkong. FOR scope and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word in fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond n the size of body, thereby effecting a vast seconomy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vest margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. The scope of the work is so great, and its A to engage him until after 10 A.M., would be happy to give lessons in the French language. It that he has just returned from Swatow, and ference to its pages enables a person who and pints.

There is a joint but not a several obligation; and the consequence thus be greatly hastened. is that if the other Powers bang back, Great Britain is not bound to stund forward. And the reason for the difference between the two obligations is obvious. We have, or are supposed to have, vital interests in connection with the Eastern question; and any attempt to interfere with the settlement which was solemnly come to fourteen years ago at once calls upon us to interfere. But with regard to Luxembourg we have absolutely no interest whatever.
